Strike Threatens Three B.C. Cities

VANCOUVER, Oct. 9.—(CP)—Reports that the strike of British Columbia coastal marine engineers might "kill" the city were denied today by Denis Hearn, national president of the Marine Engineers' Association (M.E.A.).

"As far as I am concerned, the strike has definitely been averted," he told the Canadian Press. "A settlement has been reached on wages and hours, the two main points in dispute."

HE ADMITTED there was some dissatisfaction in the union membership, and added:

"The whole thing will be thrashed out at a general meeting. Our membership is very dissatisfied," said the spokesman.

Settlement of the marine dispute will kill residents of British Columbia.

Red Deer Man Killed Instantly

Crushed between a truck and a car Wednesday at Red Deer, a 40-year-old man was killed instantly, according to RCMP. The man was employed as a welder with the British Columbia Electric Corp.

Police said the truck, driven by Alvin Long, was backing up to unload supplies into the buscar when it was crushed by the car.

During the Second World War he served with the Red Deer contingent of the Calgary Tank Regiment. He first homebased in the Raven district and then moved to Red Deer in 1938.

Mark Beginning Chinese Revolution

ATHENS, Oct. 9.—(AP)—Greek dispatches said today that government troops employing planes and artillery had routed guerrillas on Mount Tymphaleia, about 20 miles west of Lamsa, killing 50 insurgents and capturing 27 along with quantities of abandoned supplies and munitions. Another 40 were held to have been ordered.

Authorizes Creation Big Jap Police Force

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9.—(AP)—President Truman today authorized creation of a 30,000-man national police force in Japan to fill the gap left by prohibition of armed forces under the new constitution. Simultaneously, MacArthur ordered the government to take immediate steps to decentralize power, Tokyo control over law enforcement agencies and to prevent resurrection of a "police state."

Sentence 3 Jews

3-Hour Battle at Parley CCL Denounces Reds In Roaring Showdown

TORONTO, Oct. 9.—(CP)—A turbulent convention of the Canadian Congress of Labor Wednesday voted a denunciation of Communism in a roaring, wall-shaking showdown with the red minority in the congress.

IN A THREE-HOUR battle that reverberated to impassioned cries and plunged at times into uncontrolled bedlam, the congress' unified majority pushed through an administration resolution denouncing both Communist and capitalist attempts to "stifle the freedom of workers."

Though capitalism was mentioned, the issue swung squarely about the influence of Communism in unions, and both factions plunged into the uproarious fray on that question and fought it out on that battleground.

Red-dominated unions such as the United Electrical Workers and the International Woodworkers of America led the fight against the administration resolution, and their leaders hammered at the resolution's strong terms as tending to destroy unity in the congress.

A phalanx of administration supporters, however, stood firm.

Britain Cuts Bacon Quota

LONDON, Oct. 9.—(Reuters)—Britain's bacon ration of two pounds a week is to be halved from Oct. 19 as a result of strikes in Canadian factories, the ministry of food announced tonight.

The ministry said that should the Canadian strike continue indefinitely, even this ration of one pound a week could not be maintained for long.

Should the strike be settled soon it will be possible to restore the ration to two pounds as soon as working stocks are rebuilt in Britain, the announcement added.

Of Britain's total bacon supplies of 58,000 tons from January to September this year, 82,000 tons came from Canada, 31,000 tons from home production, 22,000 tons from Denmark, 2,000 tons from South Africa and 1,000 tons from British sources other than Canada.

Flights by U. S. Craft Carried on for Months

By ROBERT S. BALL
 (Staff Correspondent of The Associated Press at the Naval Air Station, Cleveland, Ohio)

United States naval planes have crashed the sonic barrier at increasing speeds in the neighborhood of 1,500 miles an hour, a high government official revealed today.

The flights have been carried on for months from a lonely island off the Virginia coast, where the national advisory committee for aeronautics (NACA) has a small experimental station.

This disclosure of American progress in the field of supersonic flight, which is flying faster than the speed of sound, is the first official admission of the flight of a jet-powered aircraft in the field of supersonic flight.

As in the RAF experiments, the American rocket jets are launched at high altitude from a flying-bombier. There are three jets in the air at a time, flying in a line at a speed of 80 to 90 miles an hour.

Telemetry devices installed in the aircraft automatically transmit pertinent data to observers on the ground. Radio is used to track the jets' path throughout the flight.

Foresee Huge Output From Leduc Oil Sector

Estimated Reserve of Area Placed at 50 Million Barrels

The Leduc sector of the Edmonton oil fields has "exceeded expectations," and a conservative estimate of the field's reserve might be set at 50,000,000 barrels, H. H. Howells, Toronto, president of Imperial Oil Ltd., said when interviewed here Thursday.

Sixty to 70 wells should be producing in the area now being drilled by the end of next year with 24 completions this year and between 40 and 50 new locations completed in 1948.

"Measured by North American standards the Leduc sector is a major field," he said. "It may be that 100,000,000 barrels is closer to the real reserves in the area."

"We are mighty pleased with developments in and around Leduc," Howells added.

THE REFINERY being erected on a site near Clover Bar, Alberta, will be completed and in operation by the end of 1948. An eight-inch pipe line is planned from the Leduc sector to the refinery. The overall cost of the refinery may be close to $10,000,000.

Two carloads of equipment from the U.S. Army and Navy were shipped yesterday for the supplies when the Dakota which dropped four paratroopers 400 miles north of the Arctic Circle at Moffat last Saturday returned to see how they were doing.

The pipe line from the Leduc sector to the refinery will be completed by the end of 1948. The pipe line will be extended to the refinery next summer. There may be difficulty in obtaining eight-inch pipe.

Mr. Howells heads a party of Imperial Oil Ltd. directors and officials, making a periodic tour of the west, meeting government officials and company employees in the western provinces.

IN THE PARTY in addition to the president, are Dr. O. R. Hopkings, Toronto, vice-president in charge of production, W. F. Pennington, Toronto, assistant to the president in charge of public relations, J. R. White, vice-president in charge of finance, and C. G. Mechin, director of engineering and manufacturing, and A. G. Deane, sales manager for Canada.

The party planned a visit to the Leduc sector Thursday afternoon.

With members of the striking United Packinghouse Workers of America (U.P.W.A.) looking on from their picket lines, three strike-bound meat-packing plants in Montreal reopened today. But only a thin trickle of workers returned to their jobs under police escort.

THE FIRMS concerned—Canada Packers Limited, World Limited and Modern Packers Limited—advised wage increases and other inducements to the workers and told them the Montreal union leaders by defying Quebec labor laws had prevented reconciliation.

Quebec is one of the six provinces which declared the U.P.W.A. wages strike against Swift Canada.

U.S. Motion Wins Out

Russians Meet Defeat On Greek Border Plan

LAKE SUCCESS, N.Y., Oct. 9.—(CP)—Russo and her associates lost out in fighting and arguing last night when a flood of votes approved the United Nations resolution for establishment of a special United Nations committee to watch the Greek-Balkan border.

FOR THE MOMENT, American delegate, Herschel Johnson, did not force that part of the resolution which called for the establishment of a special United Nations committee to watch the Greek-Balkan border.

That clause would be dropped by the vote of the three countries, which would give the undertaking to cooperate with the Balkan committee.

ing the convention this was a move to "put an end once and for all to the character assassination of those not listed by the Communist party."

THROUGHOUT, the long oratorical, bookish was maintained by staccato running fire of cheers, boos, foot-stamping, desk-bumping, cries of "order" and shouting.

The debate reached the point where one member—James Robertson of the United Steel Workers of America in Toronto—admitted former membership in the Communist party but said he had left it after discovering "they didn't give a damn about anything except trying to build up the Communist party."

While he was in the party, he said, union leaders got orders, among others, from Sam Carter, now a fugitive from justice, to make Russian, pro-Soviet resolutions, and J. B. Salsberg, Labor-Progressive member of the Ontario legislature for Toronto St. Andrew.

HE NAMED AS A Communist also Harvey Murphy of Vancouver, a leader of the International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers. Murphy took the floor later and said he was known as a Communist, and added that reds at the convention were getting the same attacks as they got from the "bores."

One of the strongest denunciations of the Communist party came from Sam Baran, Canadian director of the United Textile Workers of America, who said he had been today "the most vicious vituperator in this thing" of member of Vancouver.

He said "denouncing and condemning both capitalist and Communist intrusions on labor, the Communist also rejected the great as opposing by all legitimate means" any totalitarian philosophy, whether it be Communist, Fascist or the reflection of either one.

unbills three major cities with labor disputes involving 5,300 workers, the most serious being the threatened strike of street car and bus services, and the packinghouse workers strike.

Meanwhile, picket lines were around six of Vancouver's seven packing plants, including three independent plants, which were closed by an employees walkout yesterday.

EMPLOYEES of the Pacific Meat Company, line remaining plant still operating, announced they would strike Friday.

Main interest in Vancouver, New Westminster and Victoria was centered on the dispute between 2,800 Street Railway workers and the B. C. Electric Company. Results of a government-supervised strike vote are expected to be announced later today. A strike would disrupt all train service in the three cities.

The Vancouver News Herald said in a newspaper story that a survey taken among representative street railwaymen voting showed "at least 75 per cent favored strike action."

In a second government-supervised labor yesterday, 20-and building maintenance employees at the Vancouver Ship Exchange building voted to strike in a bid to end a wage increase demand.

Meanwhile, government officials reported that there was still no sign of a break in the month-old strike of 800 furniture workers, 360 boiler-makers and 230 newsmen.

HAROLD PRITCHETT of Vancouver, Canadian president of the International Workers of America, led the anti-administration forces on the issue.

His organization had co-operated with the CCF in trying to defeat the "reactionary" British Columbia government. He did not intend to attack the CCF, but his union had decided it cannot and "we will not delegate authority outside our organization."

"If the CCF wants the support of my union, then it must agree to the principle of democratic representation. If a basis of democracy is established, I will give the affiliation of my union to the CCF."

Very few CCL unions had followed the congress recommendations and affiliated with the CCF in British Columbia and federal "the voting prestige of the CCF."

MR. PRITCHETT proposed formation of a labor political party and affiliation with the CCF in British Columbia and federal "the voting prestige of the CCF."

Larry Setton of the United Steelworkers of America at Hamilton said it was logical and reasonable for labor to make use of the organization the CCF had built up.

City to which the re-opening announcement is believed to apply has a staff of 200.

Striking employees at the Canada Packers plant in Charlottetown were warned by a provincial government spokesman that they "cannot legally picket a government-operated plant." The plant was taken over temporarily by the Prime Minister's Island government a week ago and since then has been operated by provincial authorities.

"For some days past the strikers have been making government and employees and have attempted to intimidate the strikers by government action," Mr. Gardiner suggested recently that the strikers go back to work and submit their demands to arbitration.

TRUCKS WERE other late developments.

Labor Minister C. Rhodes Smith said Manitoba left last night for Eastern Canada in what he called "an effort to see what I can do to speed up settlement of the meat packing industry strike."

A bout 300 employees of two independent meat-packing plants in Saskatoon joined the strike.

Norman R. Riches, Saskatchewan representative of the U.P.W.A., said to Regina that Agriculture Minister Gardiner was "openly repudiating the sentiments of the strikers who are going back to work and submit their demands to arbitration."

Some 300 employees of Galen's Limited packinghouse in Edmonton prepared to strike Friday.

A meeting of the Saskatchewan federation of agriculture was called for Friday to discuss the situation created by the effect of the strike on livestock marketing.

First word of the accident reached the outside world late last night when it was learned that seven men had been entombed by an explosion that occurred during the sinking of a winch shaft on the 3,200-foot level.

LATER INFORMATION indicated another man apparently had been trapped with them, bringing the total to eight.

No details of the actual rescue were available at this mining centre, less than 100 miles south of the Patricia pass, but it was learned that Pickers from the neighboring Pickers mine decided to attempt to rescue and continued their rescue work throughout most of the night.

It was after midnight that the three rescued men were brought to the surface, raising hopes of the fellow miners who waited around the shaft. The men, who were underground fight against piled rock and seeping gas.

NEARLY FIVE HOURS later the arrival at the minehead of four bodies told those waiting that the fight had been lost.

The bodies were said to have been uncovered in a huge slide of rock let loose by the explosion, tentatively attributed to formation of natural gas.

The blast occurred in a shaft where the men were working but full details of the tragedy probably will not be learned until after arrival by air of company officials from the Toronto head office and of the provincial government, reported delayed by bad weather at Red Lake.

tion has set in from the bullet which is lodged in the mine nerves of the right side of the brain, causing paralysis of the left side. He feels Casson Turner's chances for complete recovery will be good once the missionary is under hospital care.

JUST AS SOON as the ice is thick enough to hold it, a plane will come into Arctic Bay to take Casson Turner to hospital, probably in Winnipeg. Dr. Moore said it might be two or three weeks before the plane could enter, depending on future weather conditions.

Dugald Probe Continues

Claim Minaki Special Was on Wrong Track

By Jack Aveson

WINNIPEG, Oct. 9.—(CP)—Two of three Canadian National Railways' engineers testifying last night at the coronor's inquest into the Labor Day train wreck at Dugald, Man., said that orders given the engineer of the west-bound Minaki special should have sent that train to the siding at the flag station 20 miles west of here.

The accident occurred when the special remained on the main line, plunging into a standing east-bound transcontinental train with a loss of 21 lives.

The third engineer, H. Erratt, tempered his testimony by saying that the action of the engineer of the west-bound special would depend on circumstances.

The two other engineers, Alex Black and Neil McArthur, said that the engineer's orders had given him a clear line only as far as Dugald and that at that point he should have left the main line.

Mr. Erratt, under examination by C. W. Tupper, counsel for the attorney-general's department, said that if the special encountered a green light at Dugald it might mean that the east-bound transcontinental train had not yet left Winnipeg.

IN THAT CASE, if the main line was clear, the special could have proceeded without detouring. Witnesses added that a stop should have been made at the switch, however, to ascertain fully that there was clearance.

Mr. Tupper asked: "It would be absolutely safe to proceed after that?"

Witness intimated it would be. Earlier Edgar Cook, engineer of the first section of the Minaki special, testified that he had proceeded through Dugald along the main line despite orders to take the siding.

He said he was travelling at approximately 25 miles an hour when taking the turn east of Dugald.

The fireman told him that the west-bound board had switched from red to green. When passing the switch leading to the siding he slowed down to 15 miles an hour and was given a confused hand signal by the operator at the Dugald station. NORMALLY, ORDERS would have resulted in sending the train to the siding, he said, but under the circumstances, right-of-way appeared to have been established. Mr. Cook added that at the rate he was travelling when approaching the Dugald station an emergency stop could have been made within approximately one car length.

Other witnesses called last night, at the inquest's second sitting, also were mainly railwaymen, their testimony being in response to questions concerning the special's right to continue along the main line after Dugald had been reached.

Copies of orders handed the special's engineer prior to reaching Dugald gave the second section of the Minaki special right-of-way only to the flag station.

WITNESSES AGREED that strict interpretation of the orders would have sent the special with its 326 passengers to the siding, regardless of any signal on the west-bound board.

Deputy Chief A. G. Smith of Winnipeg said that the train should have followed this practice if orders had been adhered to. The east-bound No. 4 should have held the main line, he said, while the special should have taken the east switch and pulled into the siding.

Other evidence indicated that even the east-bound train was waiting for the special on the main line at Dugald, its rear coaches extended beyond the west siding switch.

D. A. LAW, coroner, asked a witness if any part of No. 4 was in the block, and what color should the west-bound signal board be?

The witness answered: "It should be green because the signal operator at Dugald does not know that the train extends over the block."

"How can he give the block signal if he doesn't know that?"

"The block clearance is given him from Transcona, 10 miles west of Dugald."

"WELL, HE SHOULD KNOW IT," Dr. Law said, adding that it was up to the operator to find out if the west switch was clear before giving the block signal. Over witnesses' protest he said his remarks made "common sense."

Jailed Veterans Keep Up Studies

OTTAWA, Oct. 9.—(CP)—Canadian veterans serving sentences in penal and correctional institutions for military crimes or offences committed since discharge, have not been denied rehabilitation services by the Veterans Affairs Department, Dr. A. E. Clatwin, superintendent of institutional training, said yesterday.

In fact, such prisoners are studying under a nation-wide correspondence plan with penal officials co-operating in the program.

"Results indicate the scheme is a great success," Dr. Clatwin said. Veterans affairs officers agree that the majority of soldier prisoners are "not real criminals."

Biggest difficulty to date is that ten days are required for mailing lessons, study, correction and returning from Ottawa. And with "time on their hands" and encouragement from institutional schoolmasters, convict students find things too slow.

But this problem is being overcome. Arrangements have been made for cooperation with colleges and schools near institutions. At Kingston, a college professor in the prison handles all papers, cutting time between lessons by 24 hours.

On a Business Basis

The Community Chest was established in Edmonton, as it has been established in other cities and towns, to put welfare work on a business basis. The idea was and is to bring the whole field of community needs under survey, to eliminate haphazard relief efforts, avoid overlapping and overlooking, take note of the sector each affiliated welfare body covers, and see that each gets enough money to carry on its work effectively.

The twenty-seven affiliated organizations in Edmonton segregate their operations and draw support from a common fund. This fund is raised by one appeal each year, directed to all the people in the city. Each contributor thus has a measure of credit for assistance that is given to any person by any of the co-operating bodies.

There is no other way in which welfare work could be carried on with less danger of waste or partiality, and none by which the contributor could be freed from the nuisance of multiple appeals. This is the businesslike method of handling the responsibility which rests upon the people of the city to relieve distress.

The response to the appeal for the necessary money should be prompt, generous and universal. Every person who can do so should put something into the Chest.

They Deserve Better Pay

School teachers in Alberta, like teachers almost everywhere else, want more money. The fact is emphasized by the hundreds of school rooms for which qualified teachers could not be secured when the fall term opened.

The rewards are not attracting enough young men and women into the teaching profession, even in Alberta, though the pay is better here than in some other provinces. The rate is in fact repellent for—excepting the ministry—there is no other profession that young people show such a wide determination to stay out of.

There is a difference between the claim of the teachers and the claims of those in other occupations who are also demanding more money, and in many cases backing up their demands by going on strike. The latter say they need better pay because the cost of living has gone up. But the teachers are not asking for higher pay, primarily, to meet the higher cost of living. They say, and with truth, that they have never been as well paid as they should have been.

What the teachers are really urging is that their calling be recognized, that it be respected, and that the salaries be set accordingly. These scales do not compare, and never have compared, with the salaries and fees earned by men and women in other professions. They have been and are ridiculously out of line if the importance of the work is taken into account. It is time to take the "teacher's salary"—and the "preacher's salary"—out of the joke column; and to pay them as though they were doing something worth while to the community.

The "Mercy" Fliers

Edmonton, Winnipeg and Trenton are new co-ordination centres of the search and rescue operations carried by the RCAF. Hitherto there have been two centres, Vancouver and Halifax. Hereafter five of these directive stations, strung across the Dominion will cover the whole northern region at short range, and the seaboard as well.

The announcement was made at the point of time with three rescue operations being carried on in the far north, two of them away beyond the Arctic Circle. One plane had dropped a rescue party at Moffat Inlet, Baffin Island, where an Afghan missionary was reported injured by the accidental discharge of a rifle. Another plane left the day the announcement was made to pick up an Eskimo at the northern tip of Quebec, on Hudson Bay, after suffering from a gunshot wound. A third plane was continuing the search for the crew of an Eskimo schooner supposedly wrecked on Booth Island.

A day later a helicopter—possibly not a RCAF plane—picked up an injured logger at a remote lake in British Columbia and landed him safely at Vancouver for hospital treatment.

Such incidents are now common in the lives of the men who fly the northern air trails, military and civilian. To these men a "merciful fly" is just another item in the day's work. But the records of who has been rescued in this way during the post-war period alone must be a long one. As more and more people are penetrating the formerly "remote" north, the calls for planes to hunt up marooned parties and bring injured persons home will become more and more frequent. This no doubt is why five RCAF directive centres are to take the place of two.

The men, in uniform and in civilian, who undertake these missions of mercy may not count their feats as extraordinary, because they are used to the hazards involved. But the hazards are very real, and those who thus risk their lives to save others deserve to be numbered among the heroes of peacetime.

There are no heavier men and better fliers than the crewmen and parachute jumpers who go into the wilderness of forest, rocks, ice and snow to pick up the lost and the injured and bring them out to safety and medical care.

Whatever else it implies, the official declaration that the Communists have been revived means the end of actual and purposeful co-operation in the Security Council and in the General Assembly.

These bodies exist to head off war by preventing cleavages which endanger world peace. Moscow says the organization that never had any object but to create such cleavages has been re-created, enlarged, revitalized, and commissioned to resume the revived business of promoting revolutions in non-Soviet countries.

It would be like to look for harmony hereafter in the counsels of the United Nations. There has been little or none in the past when an opportunity existed to advance the interests of Communism or to discredit Democracy, even while Mr. Molotov was preaching co-operation. Now that he is not preaching the doctrine any longer, the position has been well defined.

The "accident" is a dead, unless free people accept this to mean one Communist world. This they will never do, and the "one world" is definitely two. Perhaps it is as well that this clarifying was not longer delayed. There has been a good deal of tongue-in-cheek talking in the Security Council and General Assembly. Russia's wartime allies have not assumed without misgivings that all Mr. Molotov's professions could be taken at face value. They couldn't take that for granted while he and his associates were moving the iron curtain westward and southward across Europe, toppling independent states and rearing satellites in their stead.

The Moscow announcement has removed the need for any further guessing as to its real purposes. It plans to destroy Democracy everywhere if it can, and replace representative governments by totalitarian bureaucracies. Nor is there any room for doubt as to the means it will employ. The methods of the Communists are known of old. To cause economic disturbance and thus create political unrest is its basic strategy. Democracy governments and peoples now know what they have to look for. They cannot ignore the possibility of Moscow influence in causing industrial tie-ups, instigating lawlessness and violence, stirring up discontent within their borders.

Through anarchy to Communism is the master plan of the Communists in Europe and eventually in all continents and countries.

British Tories Retreat

by Elmore Phillips

The British Conservatives have decided, by an overwhelming majority, to support the Labour government in the middle of the next general election.

That action confirms what I have already written in these columns. It is a fallacy and a trap set by the State Department to try and line up a solid "wet" vote in the U.S. on the basis suggested by the Tories.

The Tories are in a dilemma. They have been forced to retreat for the past several hundred years. They have been forced to retreat for the past several hundred years.

That action confirms what I have already written in these columns. It is a fallacy and a trap set by the State Department to try and line up a solid "wet" vote in the U.S. on the basis suggested by the Tories.

The Tories are in a dilemma. They have been forced to retreat for the past several hundred years. They have been forced to retreat for the past several hundred years.

The Russian Campaign

By DOROTHY THOMPSON

Since the September 13 speech of Mr. Vislavsky before the United Nations, the United States is being subjected to a propaganda barrage without parallel since the heyday of Hitler and Goebbels.

The Russian campaign is a dead, unless free people accept this to mean one Communist world. This they will never do, and the "one world" is definitely two. Perhaps it is as well that this clarifying was not longer delayed.

There has been little or none in the past when an opportunity existed to advance the interests of Communism or to discredit Democracy, even while Mr. Molotov was preaching co-operation. Now that he is not preaching the doctrine any longer, the position has been well defined.

The Moscow announcement has removed the need for any further guessing as to its real purposes. It plans to destroy Democracy everywhere if it can, and replace representative governments by totalitarian bureaucracies.

Through anarchy to Communism is the master plan of the Communists in Europe and eventually in all continents and countries.

Health Benefits Planned For Government Workers

By KAY REX
OTTAWA, Oct. 6.—(CP)—Before long federal government employees across the Dominion will benefit directly from the civil service health division of the health and welfare department.

It is all in the long-range plan of the seven-month-old division which already is serving the 30,000 civil servants in the various government departments throughout the capital.

"We soon hope to have branch centres in every provincial capital and large city in Canada, and a nursing service to help drive coverage to the surrounding area," said Dr. R. G. Rait, chief of the division.

"A typical industrial health service such as industries across the country have established for their employees, that's the object of the civil service health division.

"Through the benefit of modern medical methods we're trying to influence the employer working conditions, habits and methods of doing his job. Our object is the prevention of illness rather than the curing of ailments," said Dr. Rait.

"Just starting out as we are at present we're not able to do much in the way of preventive measures. What we're trying to do is keep track of the various types of illness causing absenteeism and from there we will investigate and try to eliminate such illnesses."

The division now employs a medical staff of eight, 16 nursing counselors, and 23 clerical employees. Last August 900 men and 1,425 women from the government departments in Ottawa visited the clinic.

Sophistication for Yellowknife

Approve First Cocktail Bar For Northwest Territories

By H. Dent Hodgson
OTTAWA, Oct. 6.—(CP)—Canada's Northwest Territories soon will have its first cocktail bar, it was decided yesterday at a meeting of the Northwest Territories council, but it will be a long trek for a drink for most of the far-flung inhabitants of the northland.

The first—and only—cocktail bar will be established in the booming community of Yellowknife, gold mining centre of the northern edge of Great Slave Lake, 600 air miles south of Edmonton. Yellowknife already boasts the Territories' only two beer parlors and has a liquor store, the only other one being at Fort Smith.

This was one of a wide variety of decisions reached by the council at its first meeting in some weeks. The council approved in principle the proposal that the bar be established, but shelved the matter until some revenue details could be worked out. The council also considered the case of Robert Bibbs, a Toronto newspaper man who, contrary to the advice of government officials, set out from James Bay some weeks ago in a one-man boat to attempt to navigate the Northwest

SINCE NO REPORTS had been heard from Bibbs for some time, the council considered starting a search, but decided to withhold action until some word is heard of the man's whereabouts. There was no indication of where to search.

Regarding poor radio reception in the north, it was reported the council considered starting a search, but decided to withhold action until some word is heard of the man's whereabouts. There was no indication of where to search.

Some consideration also was given to supplementing old age pensions for persons in the north, establishing a recreation centre at Yellowknife, forest fire protection, postal services, establishing a power commission and scholarships for university education.

WITH REGARD to old age pension supplements, it was decided to continue the policy of supplementing the $20-month payments with relief in kind where need arose. The other matters were discussed only briefly.

The council went on record as expressing appreciation to those who took part in ensuring the safety of the passengers and crew of the Eastern Express supply boat.

Canada-U.S. Trade Hits Dollar Supply

OTTAWA, Oct. 6.—(CP)—Canada's adverse trade balance with the United States climbed another $71,600,000 during August, reaching an all-time high of $644,500,000 for the first eight months of this year, but there was an appreciable slowing up in the monthly deficit increase rate.

OFFICIAL FIGURES showed yesterday that the August deficit—at $71,600,000—was $13,300,000 lower than the July total of $88,400,000. A still further improvement was indicated by the fact there had been a gain of nearly $10,000,000 during the same period last year.

Nonetheless, these new figures, coming on the eve of Finance Minister Abbott's return from financial talks in the United Kingdom, still served to emphasize growing official concern over the country's diminishing reserves of U. S. dollars.

At $644,500,000, the trading deficit now is $147,800,000 over the total for the whole of 1946 and tends to confirm predictions that the disparity will top the $200,000,000 mark by the year-end. The adverse balance is the amount Canada has to pay out in American funds to cover the difference between what she buys from the United States and what the United States buys from her.

THE TOTAL AMOUNT of American dollars which the exchange control board is expected to have to supply for the whole of this year is $1,200,000,000, made up of the $800,000,000 trading deficit, $200,000,000 for earnings of U. S. investments in Canada, and $100,000,000 to cover adverse balances on shipping, freight and other items.

To meet this, Canada probably will receive $200,000,000 in U. S. dollars from the United Kingdom in part-payment of Commonwealth adverse trading balances, $100,000,000 from American tourist traffic in Canada, $100,000,000 from gold shipments to the United States and $200,000,000 from trade with European and Latin-American countries.

This will leave an over-all $550,000,000

Right of Railways Boost Rates Argued

OTTAWA, Oct. 9.—(CP)—The right of railways to meet competition from truck or water carriers by raising or lowering their "competitive" rates was argued before the Board of Transport Commissioners yesterday by Isaac Pitblado, K.C., Winnipeg, counsel for the Railway Association of Canada.

He spoke on a motion by seven provinces for suspension of competitive rate increases of 30 per cent being put into effect by the railways Nov. 1 following the recent removal of prices board controls over transportation rates.

Mr. Pitblado, continuing supporting argument argued yesterday for the railways, defined competitive rates—those which may be allowed to meet competition—and cited a number of earlier board rulings to justify the use of such rates.

At one point, Chief Commissioner J. A. Cross suggested that the crux of the motion was whether the railways had the right to boost these rates while the board was in the midst of hearing an application for another 30 per cent.

"Why 30 per cent?" asked the chief commissioner of the proposal. Mr. Pitblado said he planned later to answer the contention of the opposing provinces that the Nov. 1 increase should be withheld until the board rules on the main application.

Meanwhile, his point was that the railways had the discretion to choose which rate they would establish to remove a discrimination existing in the tariff.

Canadian Dental Fees Remain at War Levels

Here's news that may ease the ache of that tooth! Dental fees haven't advanced at anything like the rate of other living costs since the war years, with many practitioners actually working on the old pre-war schedule of fees, despite rising costs of operating.

DR. J. K. CARVER, Montreal, president of the Canadian Dental Association, made the foregoing statement in an interview here Wednesday.

Along with D. W. Gullett, Toronto, secretary of the association, Dr. Carver addressed the monthly meeting of the Edmonton Dental Society in the Macdonald hotel Wednesday night.

The Dominion association president is making an annual tour of the nation, visiting affiliated branches.

Before coming here the two were at Winnipeg, Regina and Saskatoon. From here they will proceed to Calgary and Lethbridge and on to the Pacific Coast.

THE MAIN PROBLEM facing the profession of dentistry at this time is one of personnel, Dr. Carver said. It is not that there are not sufficient dentists but rather a problem of poor distribution.

"There are too many dentists in the urban centres and not enough in country districts," he pointed out.

The Canadian dental profession have just completed the five years' job of supplying dental treatment to 1,000,000 war veterans, entitled to this service under government regulations.

As of Jan. 1 last there were 4,605 licensed dentists in the Dominion, an increase of between 400 and 500 over the pre-war period.

THE WAR ENABLED the stepping up of training of new dentists, and courses for veterans have resulted in universities being crammed with students.

Because the average dental training is five years, it has taken at least two years before the general public will have the benefit of more dentists, however.

The Canadian Dental Association is opposed to the bringing in of "displaced persons" dentists from Europe because it has been proved that European dental profession standards are away below those prevailing on this continent, he pointed out.

"MANY EUROPEAN dentists now wishing to practice dentistry in Canada were driving stretchers and buses in their own countries for years before the war because there was no place for them under conditions prevailing there," he pointed out.

Dr. Carver who had been given a chance to practice in Canada were not sufficiently skilled in modern dental technique to practice in this country, he contended.

The Canadian public is much more dental-conscious than before the war and some Canadian dentists are now specializing in children's work.

The Canadian Dental Association has been emphasizing the need of children having dental attention
